Sometimes desire can make you brave... and foolish. When the King asks Sir Geoffrey to bring him a Nun, he knows it's a fool errand. To entertain himself, he asks the Mother Superior for the fairest Sister there is. The King isn't pleased with the wealthy Mother Superior, so she agrees, hoping that he will go easier on them if sent a pleasing emissary. Isabel has yet to take the formal vows, instead working as a scribe. Her breathtaking beauty is the reason she sought sanctuary, preferring solitude to being sold off by her Uncle to one of his repulsive sons. Geoffrey is stunned when he sees her and goes to great lengths to ignore her, irritated by his intense response to the serene beauty. But when the chance presents itself, he cannot stop himself from taking her. He quickly begins plans to wed Isabel upon their arrival. Instead the King has her thrown in the dungeon, to be tortured until his revenge on the religious order is complete. Will Geoffrey risk it all to rescue his love? The Knight's Lady is a stand alone historical romance novel with a guaranteed happy ever after!
